Window washers saved from 1WTC

Downtown. The workers were stranded outside of the 68th floor of the building for more than an hour on Wednesday afternoon.

All eyes were looking up in lower Manhattan on Wednesday afternoon as two window washers were rescued from the 68th floor of One World Trade Center. The men, identified by Union 32BJ SEIU as Juan Lizama, 41, of New Jersey, and Juan Lopez, 33, from the Bronx, were working on scaffolding that malfunctioned shortly before 1 p.m. Fire Commissioner Daniel Nigro said the apparatus went from a horizontal position to "nearly vertical."

Emergency crews cut through three layers of glass to pull the men through to safety shortly after 2 p.m. The were treated for mild hypothermia.

Numerous emergency crews responded to One World Trade Center. Visitors were cleared from the 9/11 Museum and Memorial Plaza during the ordeal, and crime scene tape cleared the blocks around the tower.

At 1,776 feet, One World Trade Center is the tallest building in the Western Hemisphere. The tower officially opened to workers about two weeks ago. Officials said the 68th floor was still under construction.

Ramon Castro, 59, said he had been a window-washer for more than 30 years, and walked over to see what was going on when he heard the news, and to find out if he knew the men involved.

"In all the years of cleaning windows, you never forget an accident," Castro said, adding that years ago, he had been stranded for up to five hours, on significantly lower levels.

Castro said the scaffolding moves along a track on the side of the building.

Later, at a news conference, Nigro said the cables on the scaffolding holding the workers did not break, and additional cables were lowered from the roof to secure the workers.

Citigroup employee Paul Barchitta, 23, said he walked over to see what was happening, and witnessed crews lowering a second basket from the top of the tower.

Phil Buehler took photos of the ordeal from his nearby office building. Buehler said he noticed the window washers were working on the tower earlier in the day, and posted a photo on social media.

"They're kind of just sliding along the windows, doing their thing, and then they tie it down, and in my head I'm going 'wow, if that fell,'" Buehler said.

NYC. Cops release pics of suspects in $2M Diamond District heist

Police released photos of the suspects in the major Diamond District heist that took place on Wednesday.

On Tuesday afternoon, an unidentified suspect, posing as a delivery man, entered the Watch Standard Jewelry armed with a gun as another suspect stood outside keeping watch.

Once inside, he hit one employee over the head and "demanded the property from a safe that was open inside the location," according to a police report. The pair of suspects then fled the scene with a reported $2 million in jewelry, watches and money.

Anyone with information is asked to call Crime Stoppers at 800-577-TIPS.

Man pretends to be cop to steal boy's phone

A 13-year-old boy was the victim of a Grand Larceny on Tuesday afternoon.

At around 4 p.m. at the 168th St-Ft. Washington Ave. stop in Washington Heights, the boy crawled under an MTA turnstile to avoid payment when a man posing as a police officer stopped him and asked for his phone.

When the boy handed his HTC-One smartphone over, the man fled the scene.

The NYPD has released a photo of the suspect in question, and anyone with information on his identity is urged to call the Crime Stoppers Hotline. METRO

Bus driver suspended over fight

An MTA driver was suspended on Wednesday after getting into a physical altercation with a teen the day before, the MTA said.

According to several reports, the as-yet-unidentified boy boarded a bus in Jamaica and told the driver he didn't have money to pay the fare. The driver refused to move the vehicle until he exited.

A shoving match ensued and the boy was eventually kicked off the vehicle and police arrested him for criminal mischief.

On Wednesday, the MTA announced that the driver involved in the incident had been suspended. A spokesperson for the transit system declined to comment on how long the suspension will last. METRO

An honorary service was held in Rockaway Park on Wednesday in remembrance of the victims of American Airlines Flight 587, which

Relatives and loved ones of those lost in the tragic accident, which transpired two months after the 9/11 attacks, gathered near the sight of the crash to pay respects to the 260 passengers flying from JFK to the Dominican Republic, as well as the five civilians on the ground.

Mourners were joined by Mayor Bill de Blasio, who arrived 20 minutes late due to a boat delay caused by heavy fog.

"Time has done little to dull the pain, but it has brought some measure of healing, some measure of home, a shared sense of community," the mayor said upon arriving. METRO

App contest aims to help disabled MTA riders

Manhattan. The MTA's third app quest is challenging developers to come up with apps to help the disabled.

Mayor's Office for People with Disabilities. "Traveling and navigating the system can be difficult at times, and stressful," said Puvogel, adding he often relies on other passengers, and sounds, to navigate the system.

"Apps and other technology such as wayfinding can help with these situations," Puvogel said.

MTA Chair and CEO Thomas Prendergast said that the MTA has released brand-new sets of data to help out with the App Quest 3.0, that include on-time status for Metro-North and LIRR trains, historical MTA bus locations taken from a three-month period and train arrival estimates for eight different subway lines and the Staten Island Railway.

The MTA is urging local developers to create apps that will help an estimated 850,000 disabled New Yorkers navigate city transportation.

The third annual competition was announced in the 42nd Street Grand Central subway station on Wednesday morning, which is more than 100 years old but equipped to provide cellphone and Wi-Fi service to public transit riders.

"For me, on a daily basis, I travel with a disability," said Matthew Puvogel, who is transportation coordinator for the

A total of $50,000 in prize money will be awarded by AT&T to the winning apps, which must be submitted by Feb. 3, 2015.

- The applications will be judged by technology experts, and the public

- Thomas Prendergast said the days of the MTA guarding data are over, and believes apps with real travel times aren't too far off.

NY. Ex-cop acquitted in plot to eat women

Four months after a judge overturned his conviction for plotting to kidnap and cannibalize women, a former New York City policeman walked out of a courthouse on Wednesday on one-year supervised release for a conviction on a lesser charge.

Judge Paul Gardephe overturned Gilberto Valle's conspiracy conviction in July, agreeing that Valle had only been fantasizing about cooking women to indulge a fetish. He ruled the fantasy was protected by the U.S. Constitution.

But Gardephe let stand Valle's conviction for improperly accessing a police database, and for that sentenced him to 12 months in prison, which Gardephe said had been served during the 20 months Valle spent in jail until July.

Prosecutors said Valle, 30, had used the database while he was still a police officer to look up the details of the women he fantasized about. METRO

Stupid actions

Valle apologized in Manhattan's Federal District Court to the women who were the subjects of his violent fantasies, calling them "friends" and his actions "stupid."

- "I just hope they know they were never endangered," he said, adding that he had been an "embarrassment" to his family, friends and the Police Department.

East New York. Teenager stabbed to death inside of a pizza place

An 18-year-old man was fatally stabbed inside a Domino's Pizza in East New York on Tuesday night.

The NYPD continues to look for two suspects who fatally stabbed Dashawn Cameron in the torso.

Police said the incident took place shortly before midnight at the Domino's at 2196 Pitkin Avenue.

Cameron was pronounced dead on arrival at Brookdale Hospital.

Ebola victim's family reaches settlement

Payout. Duncan's family will receive financial support, but the settlement amount was not revealed.

The family of Thomas Eric Duncan, the only person to die of Ebola in the United States, said on Wednesday it had reached a settlement with the hospital that had treated him and admitted to making mistakes in addressing his care.

Texas Health Presbyterian Hospital said it is creating a memorial fund in his honor to help Ebola victims in Africa.

"We have wrapped this up," family lawyer Les Weisbrod said, adding the family will not be billed for Duncan's care. "The size and details of the settlement are confidential."

A suit against the Dallas hospital faced long odds due to the state's regulations on malpractice suits that have made it one of the hardest places in the United States to sue over medical errors, especially those that occur in the emergency room, according to plaintiffs' lawyers and legal experts.

The hospital said the settlement "serves as an example of the common-sense Texas laws that allow discussions to take place immediately and be resolved quickly." REUTERS

Obamacare. Challenges loom, even if tech not an issue for HealthCare.gov

The technology glitches may be a thing of the past, but people shopping online for health insurance plans under President Barack Obama's health care law may encounter a new set of problems early next year, one of them being unexpected new costs.

HealthCare.gov, the federal website where people enroll for insurance under the Affordable Care Act, opens for sign-ups for policies covering 2015 this Saturday, the so-called open enrollment period.

Tech snafus that lingered for weeks last year are now much improved, but many consumers may find themselves early in the new year beset by higher costs, unexpected demands for return of subsidies and double-billings.

Court will revisit order to remove anti-Islamic film

Controversy.

The film depicts the Prophet Muhammad as a sexual deviant.

Vote

2-1

By a 2-1 vote, a 9th Circuit panel rejected Google's assertion that the removal of the film "Innocence of Muslims" amounted to a prior restraint of speech that violated the U.S. Constitution.

A U.S. appeals court will reconsider whether Google must remove from its YouTube video sharing service an anti-Islamic film that sparked protests across the Muslim world.

Earlier this year a three-judge panel on the 9th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals in San Francisco sided with a woman who appeared in the film and ordered Google to take it down. An 11-judge panel will now rehear the YouTube case, the court said on Wednesday.

The plaintiff, Cindy Lee Garcia, objected to the film after learning it incorporated a clip she had made for a different movie, which had been partially dubbed and in which she appeared to be asking: "Is your Muhammad a child molester?"

On Wednesday, Garcia's attorney Cris Armenta said her legal team will continue to advance Garcia's copyright interests and "her right to be free from death threats." In a statement, Google said it is pleased the court agreed to reexamine the case because it strongly disagreed with the initial decision.

The decision raised questions on whether actors may, in certain circumstances, have an independent copyright on their individual performances. Several organizations, including Twitter, Netflix and the ACLU, filed court papers opposing that idea and urging the court to rehear the case.

The controversial film, billed as a trailer, depicted the Prophet Muhammad as a fool and a sexual deviant. It sparked a torrent of anti-American unrest among Muslims in Egypt, Libya and other countries in 2012. REUTERS

Ferguson. Brown's father says seeks justice for son at UN

The father of black teenager Michael Brown, shot dead by a white policeman in Ferguson, Missouri, in August, said on Wednesday he and the boy's mother had come to the United Nations in Geneva to seek justice for their son.

In a statement issued through the family's lawyer Darryl Parks, the parents said they had faith in the pending decision of a grand jury in the case, which sparked looting in the St. Louis suburb soon after the shooting, and opposed any violence.

"Me and his mother have come to the U.N. to get redress for our son," Brown Sr. told a news conference after a session of the U.N. Committee on Torture which held a regular review of the U.S. record. "There couldn't be a better place to do that."

Missouri Gov. Jay Nixon said on Tuesday the National Guard would be on standby in case of violence after a grand jury decides whether to indict white police officer Darren Wilson for the fatal shooting in Ferguson.

"The Brown family continue to call for non-violence. They continue to feel the Grand Jury will do the right thing," Parks told reporters in Geneva.

The Browns had a private meeting with committee members on Tuesday at which they asked for continued U.N. pressure on the United States government over the affair. REUTERS

UN: US pot legalization not in line with international law

Cannabis.

Marijuana remains classified as an illegal narcotic under federal law.

Moves by some U.S. states to legalize marijuana are not in line with international drugs conventions, the U.N. anti-narcotics chief said on Wednesday, adding he would discuss the issue in Washington next week.

Residents of Oregon, Alaska, and Washington, D.C. voted this month to allow the use of marijuana, boosting the legalization movement as cannabis usage is increasingly recognized by the American mainstream.

"I don't see how [the new laws] can be compatible with existing conventions," Yuri Fedotov, executive director of the United Nations Office on Drugs and Crime (UNODC), told reporters.

Fedotov said he would raise the problem next week with the U.S. State Department and other U.N. agencies.

The Oregon and Alaska steps would legalize recreational cannabis use and usher in a network of shops similar to those operating in Washington state and Colorado, which in 2012 voted to become the first U.S. states to allow marijuana use for fun.

In 2013, Uruguay's parliament approved a bill to legalize and regulate the production and sale of marijuana.

1 Can Kim really #breaktheinternet?

While it's still unclear whether Kim Kardashian's oiled-up tush-exposing cover shot for Paper "broke the Internet," as the magazine was hoping — some might say it's been broken for a while — but people definitely have opinions about it. Husband Kanye West was clearly supportive, but others were less pleased. Comedian Billy Eichner went on a tear, offering several tweets about the photo, the best being, "Oh God look at what Renee Zellweger did now!" But others didn't find the situation so humorous. "Glee" star Naya Rivera popped up on Kardashian's Instagram post with the comment, "I normally don't, but ... you're someone's mother." True, but she also built a multimillion-dollar media empire off of just one homemade sex tape, so let's not all act so surprised.

Randy Jackson, the last of the original 'Idol' judges, steps down

And then there were none. / ALL PHOTOS GETTY IMAGES

Bad news for fans of original recipe "American Idol." The last remaining original judge, Randy Jackson, has announced he is leaving the show for good — or as I like to call it, "Pulling a Dunkleman." Jackson wasn't technically a judge for the 13th season of the series, stepping into the role of mentor, but now he's leaving for good. "After 13 seasons, I felt now was the perfect time to leave 'American Idol,'" Jackson told People magazine in a statement. For those keeping track at home, Paula Abdul thought that perfect time was 2009, while Simon Cowell thought it was a year later. Ryan Seacrest, on the other hand, is perfectly happy sticking around and asking audiences to send text messages. Season 14 of "American Idol" returns in January, with just Seacrest left from the show's origins.

2 There's no 'Boy is Mine' sequel coming from Ariana and Jessie J

It looks like possession of the boy will remain undetermined for the time being, as Ariana Grande and Jessie J do not actually have any plans to record a new version of the Brandy and Monica duet, "The Boy is Mine." It turns out it was just wishful thinking on the part of producer Rodney Jenkins when he revealed plans for a team-up on the R&B hit during an interview with Hits Daily Double. "It's absolutely not happening," a source says. "Neither Ariana or Jessie knew a thing about this until all these reports came out."

3 Andy Cohen on Molly is 'kind of great' to imagine

We may have the answer as to how Andy Cohen can handle those "Real Housewives" reunion specials — or why he thinks they're even a good idea. During an interview, Howard Stern grilled him about his use of Molly, the pure form of ecstasy that Miley Cyrus is such a fan of. "Look, it's very dangerous, I'm not recommending it, I'm not advocating it," he says. "But it's kind of great." Yup, totally not advocating it.

La-di-da-di-da, Andy likes to party, dance with Molly.

Neil DeGrasse Tyson takes on 'Interstellar'

"Interstellar" is a space movie that professes to take its science very seriously, so our reigning Master of All Things Scientific, Neil DeGrasse Tyson, went and took a look at it. "I don't give opinions; I don't care if anyone agrees with me or not. But as a scientist and an educator, I feel duteous to share with people what science they should look for," Tyson says during a visit to "CBS This Morning" to share his thoughts on the film. Just so you know, it's not a documentary. "They're going through a wormhole to another part of the galaxy, so it's science fiction, OK?" He at least goes easier on the film than he did last year with "Gravity." Plus, the reaction shots of the co-hosts while he's explaining wormholes are priceless. To watch go to www.metro.us.

Gugu Mbatha-Raw does her best Rihanna

GUGU MBATHA-RAW
FILMMAGIC

Interview. The British actress looked to Beyonce, Prince and more for the music drama "Beyond the Lights."

British actress Gugu Mbatha-Raw put an awful lot of thought into creating Noni, the pop star on the verge of collapse in director Gina Prince-Bythewood's "Beyond the Lights." Her influences ranged from Rihanna to Prince, Britney Spears to Judy Garland.

You've played an American before, but how important was it that your character be British in this? How did that play into the story?

When I first read it, she was American, and I auditioned in an American accent with Gina. I didn't take [the change] as any sort of slight on my American accent. [Prince-Bythewood] said it was perfect, but she also thought it would be more interesting if the character was British, because in some ways it would raise the stakes for the mother-daughter dynamic if they really had put all their eggs in one basket. That whole "us against the world" idea sort of heightened the desperation that there was no going back, you know?

How much was Rihanna a focus when you were developing this character? Or were you looking at other pop figures?

There were so many. As I said, we looked at Adele. We went and saw Beyonce live in concert, we went and saw the Katy Perry documentary together, we talked a lot about Britney Spears' trajectory. It really was a combination of artists, old and new. We were looking at "Purple Rain" and Prince as an iconic artist as well as Diana Ross in "Lady Sings the Blues." Gina also had me read the biographies of Judy Garland for that mother-daughter dynamic and that child actress transition, even Marilyn Monroe for the sex symbol identity and what the cost of that is psychologically.

Gugu Mbatha-Raw plays a budding, purple-haired pop diva in the drama "Beyond the Lights." / SUZANNE TENNER

Try a little tenderness

Artists are people, too

Finding the real in the popular sounds like a complex thing to play.

I think that people forget that artists are human beings. So often to get noticed you have to generate this larger-than-life persona — more often than not for women, with an overly sexualized swagger. [Laughs] Particularly in the hip-hop world, that's become the norm. We've sort of become numb to that as a society; that's become the culture. I think that Gina was keen to change the conversation for [the hip-hop industry] right now, because ... she felt there really wasn't anywhere else to go — you know, in terms of the potentially misogynistic tone of a lot of hip-hop music and the way that women are portrayed in these videos. So I think that she just wanted to challenge that as a social norm.

Consumers rush to get free TV after Supreme Court ruling

U.S. households to get free TV with slick little micro antenna device engineered to pull in all over-the-air TV channels for free as law forces network giants to broadcast all TV signals regionally to all 50 states

Free TV: Crystal clear HDTV picture with no cable, no satellite or internet connection and no monthly bills

NATIONWIDE - Consumers just got handed a really good reason to get rid of cable and satellite bills.

Everyone fed up with high cable and satellite bills, huge channel bundles and poor customer service are now flocking to get a slick little micro antenna device that lets U.S. households watch broadcast TV legally without paying a cable or satellite company for it and no monthly bills.

So much attention is now being focused on this slick little device since the High Court handed down the big win for consumers.

The landmark decision highlights the public's ability to get all the top rated national TV network and regional shows broadcast over the air absolutely free.

The only thing consumers need to do to get the slick little micro antenna device is call the Free TV Order Hotline beginning at 8:30am this morning or simply return the Free TV Claim Form printed at the bottom of this page before the 3-day postmark deadline ends.

Everyone who does is getting the slick little $88 device at a real steal because it pulls in crystal-clear digital TV channels for free with no monthly bills.

The target audience for the slick little micro antenna device has been young urban professionals who don't want to watch more than 20 or 30 live TV channels. But now older folks are snapping up the slick little device because it's rapidly becoming popular for those on fixed incomes and anyone who just doesn't want to pay a cable or satellite bill anymore.

"When advanced technology enables consumers to just plug in a simple device to get free TV, consumers are the winners," said David Martin, Senior Analyst at CompTek, the company that makes the sleek little micro antenna device that works on virtually any TV.

"This special advertising feature is being so widely published because there's never a monthly bill to pay and all the channels you get are absolutely free," Martin said.

"That's why the slick little device is not like being tied to a cable or satellite company. The device is engineered to access solely over-the-air signals that include all the top rated national and all broadcast stations, like DISNEY (ABC), COMCAST (NBC), CBS, 21st Century FOX (FOX), PBS, CW and about 90% of the most watched TV shows like America's Got Talent, NCIS, The Big Bang Theory, 60 Minutes, The Bachelorette, Blue Bloods, Dateline, Person of Interest, American Idol, The Voice, Dancing With the Stars, CSI, Two and a Half Men, Sunday Night Football plus news, weather and sports all for free with no monthly bills," Martin said.

That means consumers who get the slick little device can channel surf through all the ■ FREE TV WITH NO CABLE BILLS: Thanks to a slick little micro antenna device that plugs into the back of any TV, consumers are getting free crystal-clear digital channels without cable or satellite. It's like getting a new HDTV for free. That's why U.S. residents are flooding the Free TV Hotlines and rushing to the Post Office to return the Free TV Claim Form reprinted at the bottom of this page. Consumers in all 50 states who want to get Free TV with no monthly bills just need to call within 72 hours or beat the 3-day postmark deadline. Consumers should begin calling the free TV Hotlines at 1-888-862-3559 Ext.60330 beginning at 8:30am or be sure the Free TV Claim Form is postmarked by midnight 3 days from today's publication date.

nations top favorite TV shows. The number of shows and channels consumers get depends on where they live. People living in large metropolitan areas can get up to 53 crystal-clear digital channels, while people in outlying areas will get less. That means even consumers in rural areas that pull in NBC, ABC, CBS, FOX and PBS broadcasts will still get hundreds of shows each year to watch for free.

"It's so simple all you do is just plug it into the back of your TV and place the razor thin micro device on a window or wall, then autoscanner does all the rest. It works on virtually any model TV and you get a stunning HDTV quality picture," Martin said.

"It just doesn't make any sense to keep paying for TV when you can get all the top rated network channels and hundreds of shows absolutely free," he said.

But there is no time to waste, early reports show the free TV Hotlines are extremely busy.

So, if lines are busy keep trying, all calls will be answered. (Continues on next page)

WHO WINS IN SUPREME COURT'S LANDMARK DECISION

WINNERS:

CONSUMERS

Consumers who get a slick little micro antenna device like the razor thin Clear-Cast® brand will get free TV with no monthly bills. The courts ruling emboldens the ability for consumers to legally use the slick little device in their own home to get free TV. The simple device is engineered to pull in nothing but free TV channels in crystal-clear digital picture with no cable, satellite or internet connection. That's why this slick little micro antenna is a real steal at just $88 because it is such a smart alternative for everyone who is sick and tired of paying cable and satellite bills.

NETWORKS AND TV STATIONS

With the victory, all major networks and TV stations get to protect their copyrights, but they must continue to comply with Federal Law 47CFR SEC. 1.4000 which allows consumers who have a slick little micro antenna device to receive all the crystal-clear over-the-air broadcast channels for free. Shown here are a handful of the major networks that must broadcast over the air channels that consumers can receive for free with the slick little micro antenna devices that saves money by not picking up expensive cable only channels like ESPN so there's never a monthly bill for consumers to pay.

Network trademarks and programs are the property of their respective owners and are not affiliated with or endorsing the antenna devices. Consumers report the crystal-clear picture quality with the Clear-Cast brand micro antenna device is the best quality picture they've ever seen.

MOVIE STUDIOS

Hollywood cheered the high court's decision because consumers who have a slick little micro antenna device will receive all of the major network Hollywood movies broadcast over the air for free.

LOSERS:

AEREO

Aereo will likely suspend its business since the court's decision after it developed a way to bootleg major TV network's content. Aereo charged subscribers $8 to $12 a month to lease a dime size remote antenna located in the company's facility.

DEVICE MAKERS

The Computer & Communications Industry Association backed Aereo's position, having concerns that the ruling could be detrimental to other cloud services.

CORD CUTTERS

TV viewers in large cities such as New York, Dallas and Boston who relied on Aereo's service that provided more than two dozen local channels.

FILM 20

'Dumb and Dumber To'

1 Jim Carrey and Jeff Daniels (and filmmakers Peter and Bobby Farrelly) dust off some 20-year-old jokes, but can it ever really be as funny as any episode of "The Newsroom"?

'Beyond the Lights'

2 "Belle"'s Gugu Mbatha-Raw plays a reluctant Beyonce type torn between fame and an unfailing — and often shirtless — gentleman (Nate Parker) who wants her to give it all up and defy her domineering stage mom (Minnie Driver).

'Rosewater'

3 When Jon Stewart disappeared from "The Daily Show" last summer, it was because he was off in Jordan directing this straight-up drama about journalist Maziar Bahari (Gael Garcia Bernal) getting detained in an Iranian prison for 118 days.

'Foxcatcher'

4 A comedic actor (Steve Carell) and a stud (Channing Tatum) try to prove their dramatic bona fides in this stranger-than-fiction docudrama, with the former playing deranged and moneyed murderer John Du Pont (whose victim is played by Mark Ruffalo).

'The Homesman'

5 Tommy Lee Jones gets back in the saddle of both the Western genre and filmmaking, directing himself as a wild frontiersman forced to team with a resilient prairie woman (Hilary Swank) on a mission 'cross some perdy vistas.

'Red Army'

6 Who says Communism doesn't pay? The most successful hockey team in history is from Russia, and, as you'll learn in this doc, in the good old days of the Cold War were referred to as the "Red Army Team."

'Bad Turn Worse'

7 The very talented Makenzie Davis (one of the many over-qualified stars of "That Awkward Moment") is one of the Texas teens who get in over their head when a visit to a small town results in them being embroiled in unsavory business with a terrifying criminal (Mark Pellegrino, in a star-making role).

'Interstellar'

8 Christopher Nolan gets lost in space in this typically ambitious sci-fi saga, with the fate of humankind put in the hands of the guy from "Ghosts of Girlfriends Past" and the girl from "Ella Enchanted." (The guy from "Jaws: The Revenge" is there, too.) Try to see it projected on 70mm IMAX, not in crappy, television-like DCP.

'Big Hero 6'

9 One day, every film will be from Marvel. The comics giant has already started taking over animation, starting with this superhero comedy about a young science prodigy who joins up with other tech nerds-turned-superheroes, plus an inflatable, pot-bellied robot pal who will be the only part of this film you'll remember.

'The Theory of Everything'

10 Having already been played as a young man by Benedict Cumberbatch (in a 2004 TV movie), Stephen Hawking gets the full Great Man biopic treatment, with Eddie Redmayne playing the theoretical physicist into his older age. Felicity Jones plays Jane, his patient, suffering wife.

What to see at DOC NYC

New York City crops up a lot in DOC NYC, the fourth annual series devoted to nonfiction filmmaking. But it goes all over the globe, and even into the past. (Among the doc classics are Frederick Wiseman's "High School" and "Hoop Dreams.") There are dozens of films to see over the next week; here are our five picks. (For more recommendations, visit www.metro.us.)

'The Chair'

This 1962 work from fly-on-the-wall documentary pioneer Robert Drew (of the seminal JFK campaign portrait "Primary") finds the director paying witness to a key moment in the fight over capital punishment. Drew observes the 11th-hour attempt to save a convicted murderer from the electric chair, hanging in offices with unflappable lawyer Don Moore and sitting in on the trial as the debate over the efficacy of reform programs rages. It builds to a surprising final moment, if not one you'd expect.

'Do I Sound Gay?'

The fest's opening night film takes a suitably loaded look at self-identification, using director-star David Thorpe's "gay voice" — a lisp combined with effeminate, not macho, phrasing — as an entree into the vast diversity of the modern gay experience and a complex look at easing homophobia. As Thorpe tries multiple vocal coaches to soften his speaking voice, he looks at the past, including clearly gay TV staples such as Paul Lynde.

Last year's graffiti scavenger hunt is relived in "Banksy Does New York," showing at DOC NYC, which starts tonight and runs through Nov. 20. Visit www.docnyc.net for the full lineup. / HBO

'Banksy Does New York'

More than tracing each of the 31 pieces the graffiti maven tagged on our city last August, this doc looks at the various ways the work prompted social media comment on under-acknowledged ills. Some pieces are shallow; some cut deep. Sending a bunch of Instagram-wielding hipsters to East New York is both funny and a reminder of how much the neighborhood goes ignored.

Elliott Smith gets his own documentary in "Heaven Adores You."

'Heaven Adores You'

The late Elliott Smith deserves more than a traditional biographical documentary, and he gets one. Mixing the usual talking heads with a more expressionistic approach, it sets interviews with Smith and his friends over striking footage of Portland, New York and Los Angeles today. Best of all, there's no hyperbolic praise from fellow musicians or journalists; it's just his closest friends, depicting an intimate portrait of the man, not the legend.

'Cairo Drive'

Filmed over the last handful of years, this takes a disarmingly fast-paced, even peppy, look at Egypt as it undergoes massive changes. The Egyptian revolution happens in a flash, but little changes; this is a look at everyday life in Cairo, and at the people not radicalized enough to be activists, who nonetheless have their share of complaints.

'I'm home amongst the stars'

Fashion. Designer Manish Arora now has a flagship store in the heart of Paris. He talks A-listers and why contemporary fashion has lost its funny bone.

Manish Arora is something of a one-off in the fashion industry. He was the first Indian designer to show at Paris Fashion Week and now has woven the extravagant heritage-inspired fabric of his designs into the heart of Paris with the opening of his first flagship store in October. The 65-year-old's roots are important to him. To enter his showroom is to leave Paris and arrive at Arora's "pop culture-meets-Indian heritage." His whimsical "Alice in Wonderland"-esque designs, which are crafted using ancient artisanal techniques from his hometown of New Delhi, are wooing celebs like Katy Perry, Rihanna and Nicki Minaj.

Pop stars in Arora

NICKI MINAJ

KATY PERRY

This is your first flagship store, so how do you feel?

It is a very big deal. Not only is it my first store, it's also the first time an Indian designer has had his own shop in Paris, so it's quite a milestone, for myself and for the Indian fashion industry as well.

What was your biggest challenge when you showcased during Paris Fashion Week?

I was the first Indian designer to do it, so I had no one to look up to, which I considered as an advantage in the end, because I had to find my own path. Of course there were difficulties because coming from India, it can take a while to understand the mindset of the people here, not just the French but the global Western market. We have been lucky with the press since the beginning and I feel like now, we have found the right balance between the media's appreciation and the actual sales. We have already sold 70 percent of the fall/winter collection.

Here's a look into Manish Arora's store in Paris's Rue Saint-Honore fashion district. / PROVIDED

What do celebrities like in your work?

I think they like the joyfulness of it. So far I have been very lucky with the celebrities who found me, like Katy Perry and Nicki Minaj, because they've got the spirit, so you can imagine them all in these clothes — they embody them. Before Katy Perry wore my circus skirt, I did not even know who she was. It's funny now because Madame Tussauds asked us to make the skirt for the Katy Perry wax statue in the Asian museums — it became such a symbol of her. I've also dressed up Fergie, Rihanna, Beth Ditto and Grimes — I love her. I'm quite obsessed with her music right now.

Is it a pleasure for you to dress celebrities?

We are not the kind of brand to do celebrity endorsing. I have never gone in that direction, because

I think it's important that the celebrities choose the clothes they want to wear — I feel that's more real.

Who did you have the most fun dressing?

I can't choose one but I did meet Katy Perry and I have traveled with her, so I can tell she is a great person — fun and easy-going.

Do you like modern fashion?

It's a bit boring. These days, not in every house, but in general, fashion has become more about what people want and not about bringing your point of view to people. A designer used to create something new, take a risk and offer it to the world. I feel like now, everything is based on sales, what's on demand, and that's what makes fashion pretty sad.

Ammon Carver Studio

Celebrity hair stylist and creative director for L'Anza Healing Haircare, Ammon Carver just opened his first salon in Chelsea. But this isn't a regular beauty retreat. The "Hybrid Studio," as Carver calls it, services clients in the front — while the back of the loft space acts as a fully functional photoshoot and event space. That means you could be getting your hair done at the same time a fashion photoshoot is taking place (which is so much better than staring at models in a magazine). The salon and photo studio are also available for private events like bridal parties prepping for the big day.

DATING 24

Thanksgiving: What to do if you are bringing a date

Advice. A relationship expert dishes on how to manage meeting the family.

Thanksgiving can be a tricky time for new couples. As Americans are finalizing their plans for the big day, those who've recently partnered up are probably wondering if the time is right to invite their boyfriend or girlfriend to come home with them for the holidays.

"It's really a big step on so many levels," says dating coach Tracey Steinberg.

Steinberg, author of "Flirt for Fun and Meet the One," shared some tips for couples who are currently figuring out what to do for what is probably the most family oriented holiday.

Here's how to make sure things don't get awkward around the table. / PURESTOCK

Make sure the timing is right

Before you rush to invite your boyfriend or girlfriend home, it's important to ask yourself a couple of questions: "Is this someone that you are serious about?" she asks. "Have you met their friends? And are you regularly in contact, meaning — is it an assumed thing that you'll spend every Saturday night together?" If you're not sure where you are in the relationship, it's probably better to wait another year.

Talk about expectations

Worried that your mom will start dropping hints about grandchildren? The best way to avoid that is to talk to your parents. "You can set up some guidelines," says Steinberg.

Remember to have fun

"If you are in a good relationship and you are enjoying it, it can be really exciting," says Steinberg.

Planning

Prepare your partner for your visit

"I'm a big believer that you can set some things up for success," says Steinberg. Talking with your partner about what Thanksgiving is usually like with your family helps a lot. "Give as much information as possible. What you should wear, what are great topics for conversations, even what compliments you can give."

Thanks for cooking

Thanksgiving. Let someone else carry the mighty burden that is a proper holiday dinner.

Whether it's because you can't cook — no judgment, baking is more science than we took in college — or because the size of your apartment limits your ambitions, there are plenty of places around the city that will do the heavy lifting.

As happy as the Aussies at Burke & Wills (226 W. 79th St.) would be to have you celebrate an American holiday there, they've still got to do their Australian thing. Executive chef Rodrigo Nogueira (Colicchio & Sons) has created a three-course prix fixe ($35, $65 with wine pairings) menu with foie torchon with cranberry chutney and brioche, and rotisserie leg of lamb with roasted Brussels sprouts and beet reduction.

If you can't afford the airfare to eat with your family down South, get the next best thing is Jacob's Pickles (509 Amsterdam Ave.) with a six-course Southern feast ($45) that kicks off with savory biscuits and pickles. The turkey comes as a braised leg, which you can presumably feel free to eat like you're at a cookout rather than a restaurant.

Why should booze live only in a glass instead of making your food taste better? At Bistango (145 E. 50th St.), the star of the Thanksgiving menu ($55) is the red bourbon turkey, served with Italian sweet sausage dressing and, somewhat incongruously, kale salad, among other sides.

For the gluten-free set, the newly reopened COLORS (47 Lafayette St.) takes the guesswork out of the holiday — there's no gluten on the entire menu, any time of year.

The three-course Thanksgiving meal ($55) includes pork and bacon meatballs (why only have one of a good thing?) and a traditional turkey dinner with sides and apricot-sage stuffing.

If you don't get Thanksgiving off, or just plan to spend the day shopping as Black Friday creeps into the rest of the week, Gotham Bar and Grill (12 E. 12th St.) will be seating until 9 p.m. for its three-course holiday menu ($135), which

Feast

'Carmine's Celebrates'

Thanksgiving may be the standard-bearer of large-format dinners, but since its opening Carmine's has been serving the original version: the kind ladled out by grandmothers worldwide as they tut about when the last time was that you had a decent meal. "Carmine's Celebrates," out now, gathers 100 homestyle Italian dishes that aren't holiday-themed — they're meant to accompany everyday feasts, like managing to gather friends and family in one place for dinner.

Andy Warhol. SoHo gallery opens major display of pop icon's work

Whether you think soup cans qualify as art, you can't argue that Andy Warhol had style. "Andy Warhol: At Face Value" opened this week at POP International Galleries' SoHo location (473 W. Broadway), featuring pieces like "Marilyn" in one of the largest collections of his work ever gathered. Many are for sale — hope you brought your bank account — but you're welcome to browse and take selfies with the art (not that we did).

If his wall art is out of your budget, Absolut

Vodka recently released a limited-edition bottle wrapped with his "Absolut Warhol" painting, which was created in a 1986 collaboration with the brand. A portion of proceeds will go to The Andy Warhol Foundation for contemporary arts. EVA KIS includes caviar, practically every major protein and spiced pumpkin mousse.

Outside the box

Our "traditional" Thanksgiving menu doesn't much resemble what the Pilgrims and Indians ate back in 1620s Plymouth. Taste the real deal at Chapter One's Colonial Harvest Dinner (33 Greenwich Ave.). After extensive research, executive chef Warren Baird (Esca) created a menu that highlights the influences of Native Americans on the settlers' cuisine. The meal ($39) will be served family style and includes roast venison with maple and cranberry, Ryaninjun bread made with rye and cornmeal, and hard cider, the traditional drink of most everyone at the time.

Petaluma just reopened in August on the Upper East Side, and for Thanksgiving the Italian spot is skewing the usual dishes just a little to keep things fresh. The prix-fixe menu ($65) has jalapeno cornbread, kabocha squash bisque and heritage turkey with dark meat roulade. The desserts hew closer to tradition, but who's complaining about ricotta cheesecake?

If you're just not that into the Thanksgiving fare, head to 212 Steakhouse (316 E. 53rd St.) for the turkey-free prix fixe menu whose star is certified Kobe beef ($75, add $30 for Kobe steak). Start with a half-dozen oysters and go all the way to the red wine caramel crème brûlée without shaking a single tailfeather.

There's a reason '21' Club (21 W. 52nd St.) is an institution, so why not see how they can jazz up the classic American meal? The prix fixe menu ($115) walks the line between old school and modern flair, with ricotta pumpkin nocchi alongside a by-the-books roasted turkey plate.

Got a vegetarian in your party? Head to Dovetail (103 W. 77th St.), where turkey huggers can feast on a three-course prix fixe meal ($98) that includes truffled pappardelle with Brussels sprouts or black trumpet mushrooms and salsify. Turkey eaters, meanwhile, can nosh on slow-roasted turkey with confit leg agnolotti. The restaurant will also be giving out warm spiced doughnuts and $5 mulled wine and hot apple cider during the nearby Thanksgiving Eve Balloon Blow-Up on Nov. 26.

Horoscope

♏ Scorpio | Oct. 23-Nov. 21. You might find that a special someone is feeling a little rejected. Secret affairs could develop with someone at work.

♐ Sagittarius | Nov. 22-Dec. 21. Don't donate too much; you may find that you are being taken advantage of. Added responsibilities or demands might be inevitable.

♑ Capricorn | Dec. 22-Jan. 20. Ask for favors, but offer something in return. You can successfully start your own business or get involved in a partnership.

♒ Aquarius | Jan. 21-Feb. 18. Loose lips may be undermining your reputation. Don't let others know your thoughts. Focus on what you are trying to do.

♓ Pisces | Feb. 19-March 20. Creative courses will raise your earning potential and lead to a successful enterprise. Don't go halfway.

♈ Aries | March 21-April 20. You will attract romantic partners with your charismatic personality and energetic approach to life. Don't tell someone you love him or her if you aren't sure that it's so.

♉ Taurus | April 21-May 21. Friends may interfere with your personal objectives. If you need some advice, try to find someone who is impartial.

♊ Gemini | May 22-June 20. This will not be the day to take chances. Lock your money up where it's safe. Stay out of stores where you might be tempted to purchase household items.

♋ Cancer | June 21-July 22. Your home environment appears to be extremely active. Plan your day carefully if you wish to dodge any setbacks. Make a list of priorities.

♌ Leo | July 23-Aug. 22. Difficulties with authority figures will surface. Be diplomatic, but don't allow anyone to curtail your freedom.

♍ Virgo | Aug. 23-Sept. 22. Problems with groups may upset you. The only person you can really know and help is yourself. Put an effort into self-improvement.

♎ Libra | Sept. 23-Oct. 22. Put your effort into getting your own work done, and refrain from interacting with peers who are just wasting time. Stay focused.

Net neutrality a bad idea

Let me get this straight. Net neutrality ensures access to identical Internet speeds for all of us and requires all of us to pay the same price regardless of our expected usage. Think of the Internet as a railroad, built to carry commuter, freight and the high-speed Acela and bullet trains. The difference is that if you want to ride the Acela, you're going to pay more than for a commuter going to the same place. If the small percentage of people using an unequally large percentage of the limited Internet bandwidth are not paying more to do so, then who is? Oh, that's right, it's the rest of us. Yeah, seems fair to me. Not. While initially developed from government funding, the Internet's explosive expansion over the last 20 years was the result of capitalists funding the necessary infrastructure to handle the ever-increasing demand for access. It wasn't done for the socialist "Everybody's equal" mentality, but for profit. Net neutrality means getting the majority to pay for the excessive usage of the minority so the minority's "rights" to transmit data on the Internet are not infringed. Access to the Internet is not a "right" and never has been. It's an "option" for those with a computer who wish to pay for it.

Smith looks for silver linings after benching

NFL. Geno Smith speaks on being replaced at QB by Michael Vick.

Admittedly, it hasn't been an easy two weeks for Geno Smith. After being benched in Week 8, he has had to watch Michael Vick lead the team he was once expected to take to the playoffs.

Smith cut down on his turnovers at the tail end of the 2013 season, winning two of his last four games while owning a 4:2 touch-down-interception ratio during that stretch.

But the Week 8 performance against the Bills this year was enough for the Jets coaching staff to pull him in favor of the veteran Vick. They no longer needed promise or potential, they needed wins.

"It's very humbling. For a guy like me who likes to compete, it fuels that fire even more," Smith told Metro New York. "It gives you a different perspective of just how much I like this game, how much I like competing, how much I want to be back out there. It's just going to make me appreciate it more. But for now I need to take what I can from it, grow and get better in practice by watching."

Even as he ascended to a starting role, it was clear that Smith had plenty of issues. He still struggled to

Quoted

"The most important thing Mike [Vick] has done is protecting the football. That's been my biggest issue over a year and a half. I've had some good games, then some games where I've turned the ball over."

Jets backup quarterback Geno Smith, on what he has seen from Michael Vick so far read defenses in his second year in the league, had difficulty identifying coverages and his pocket presence and mechanics remained a work in progress.

The decision to start Vick came the Monday after he was pulled from the Buffalo game. Head coach Rex Ryan came into the quarterbacks room that day and said he was going with Vick.

Smith heard his head coach and took it. He's calling his role as a backup, "a tremendous learning experience, even if it's not where I want to be."

NCAA. Hearing for QB Winston postponed

James Winston's hearing has been postponed. / GETTY IMAGES

James Winston's student conduct code hearing has been postponed to Dec. 1, according to ESPN.com. The decision for the delay came after Winston's attorney, Florida State officials, and the Title IX attorney for a woman who accused Winston of sexual assault in 2012 spoke via teleconference on Wednesday. MATT BURKE

MLB

Robertson asks for megadeal

The Yankees will have to pony-up if they intend on bringing back closer David Robertson, according to ESPN.

New York is in initial talks with Robertson, who wowed in his first year with 39 saves, but the man who replaced Mariano Rivera is reportedly seeking "[Jonathan] Papelbon money." MATT BURKE

NFL. Ryan not ready to throw in towel

Rex Ryan isn't yet ready to call it quits. / GETTY IMAGES

Jets coach Rex Ryan isn't resigned to the idea that he may be forced to resign.

"I need every win I can get," Ryan told ESPN. "We're going to prepare [for the last six games] like there's a playoff game riding on it. How many wins we'll have, we'll find out, but I'm confident we'll have a number of them." MATT BURKE

Fatherly advice

LeBron tells sons, 'No football'

It's often been said that LeBron James would look pretty good suiting up as a wide receiver for the Cleveland Browns. Unfortunately for Cleveland fans, James won't be putting on the pads anytime soon and neither will his children, LeBron Jr. and Bryce Maximus. James told ESPN that the reason he is restricting his children from playing football is because of health dangers related to the sport. "Only basketball, baseball and soccer are allowed in my house," James told ESPN.

PREPPING FOR THE STRETCH RUN

Fantasy sports

ADAM LEVITAN

ALEVITAN@METRO.US

With the bye weeks thinning out, there's not much reason to carry mediocrity on the bench.

The only way fantasy reserves like DeAngelo Williams, Marques Colston and Owen Daniels will make their way into our lineup is if injury strikes.

But if injury does strike one of our studs, we can often do better with his backup. That's where handcuffing comes in.

RB scheming

Simply due to the nature of the position, starting running backs are the ones most likely to get injured. There's no way a Jamaal Charles owner should be going forward without Knile Davis, even if you have to trade for him. The same can be said for James Starks cuffed to Eddie Lacy,

Four of Charles' six touchdowns this season have come in his last three games. / GETTY IMAGES

Joseph Randle to DeMarco Murray, Chris Polk to LeSean McCoy, Carlos Hyde to Frank Gore — you get the idea. These backups would immediately become top-15 options if given a full workload.

Wide of the Mark

It's not nearly as necessary to handcuff wideouts, but it makes sense in certain high-upside situations. T.Y. Hilton and Reggie Wayne owners would do well to own Donte Moncrief. A Demaryius Thomas injury would be a disaster, but Cody Latimer could soften the blow. The same could be said for a Davante Adams to Jordy Nelson/Randall Cobb or Harry Douglas to Julio Jones/Roddy White. It's happened already with Moncrief, as he went 7-113-1 in the one game Wayne missed.

NFL matchups

Fire up these borderline players in Week 8:

- Malcom Floyd vs. Oakland — Floyd historically eats against the Raiders, who are both bad and banged up in the secondary. He'll be fresh out of the bye.
- Greg Jennings at Chicago — The Bears will play better than they did Sunday night, but they are broken on defense. C-Patt has proven he's not ready to step up for the Vikings.
- Bishop Sankey vs. Pittsburgh — Locked and loaded as the feature back, it's time for Sankey to break out against a Steelers defense that will be without Polamalu and Shazier again.
